Interaction Summary

Over the last 5 days, patient patient had several brief interactions with the AI, mostly greetings and questions about identity and relationships, including repeated questions about who their son is, who Basel is, and what their own name is. The patient also introduced themselves at different times as Basel and Leen, suggesting possible confusion or forgetfulness. They asked about Alzheimer's, medications, and the meal for the day, but the system often had trouble responding fully. The patient sounded sad once and also became verbally upset in two messages, but at other times was calm and conversational. A scheduled snack reminder was sent asking the patient to reply after eating.
